

The St Peter's Woolley Haggis Watch

Saturday 10th August doors open at 6.30pm

Can you keep a secret? If you can read on...

You may already know that St Peter's churchyard is home to a very rare breed of Haggis. Known as 'The Woolley Where Did it Go Haggis', it's the Mo Farah of the Haggis world, hence very rarely seen. To help keep this protected species a well-kept secret (known only to you and the vicar) and to help raise church funds you are warmly invited to the 'The Watch.'

'The Watch' starts at 7.00pm.

The cost is £15 for adults and under 18's £8 payable on arrival.

Refreshments will be available to keep you nice and warm. Also available will be haggis (there's even a vegetarian option), with neeps tatties and gravy (vegetarian). Please note the haggis are not from Woolley as they are under legal protection as an endangered species.

To book a place and to be given more Top-Secret information please contact the grumpy vicar at kevin.greaves@leeds.anglican.org

Remember, it's a secret between you and the vicar, don't let on to anyone!

This flyer will self-destruct after it's been read, to stop this you need to book asap.
